

ISCLR Privacy Policy

The International Society for Contact Lens Research (ISCLR) welcomes you to our website. If you continue browsing and use the website you are agree to comply with and be bound by the following terms and conditions of use.

The terms 'the International Society for Contact Lens Research' or 'ISCLR' or 'society' or 'us' or 'we' or 'ours' refer to the owner of this website whose registered office is 600 Washington Avenue, Suite 2500, St. Louis, Missouri 63101, USA. The terms 'you' or 'your' refers to the user or viewer of our website.

The ISCLR respects your privacy and we are committed to ensure your privacy is protected. Should we ask you to provide certain information by which you can be identified when using this website, then you can be assured that it will only be used in accordance with this privacy statement.

Information collected when accessing our web site

When you access our web site, we collected the following information

- IP address of accessing computer
- Date / time / time zone
- Web browser/version used
- Page URL requested
- Operating system and version used
- Referring web URL (i.e. what page you were on before this page)

Information in our database

We also collect information that you provide to the ISCLR either as a member or on registration for meetings. The following may be collected:

- Name
- Job title
- Contact information such as mailing addresses, phone numbers and email addresses
- Communication preferences
- Logistical information for our meetings such as your intent to attend conference events and food preferences

You are under no obligation to provide us with personal information of any kind, however your refusal to do so may prevent us from communicating with you in relation to the ISCLR Symposia, membership dues renewal notices and receipts. Members of the society have the option to opt-out or unsubscribe from having information stored or used by us at any time by editing the details of their user profile in the website section "Edit my profile". Anyone else registered as a delegate for the ISCLR Symposia can opt out by contacting the society secretary. The information we collect allows the ISCLR to keep in contact with its members and delegates attending its meetings.

The ISCLR does not provide any data or information to third parties. It does provide your information to other society members and identifying information is provided to delegates when they attend the ISCLR symposia. Our membership database is hosted by Media Doc Ltd and secured at their data center using standard industry-accepted protocols.

Do we use Cookies?

Yes, the ISCLR website is run on WordPress which uses cookies.

Security

The hardware infrastructure for our web site is managed by Amazon Web Services and access is restricted to SSH public / private key pairs available only to the developers / vendor. All underlying software infrastructure is monitored and updated regularly, including all WordPress core files and plugins. Data stored in database is secured via a AWS RDS system, and only accessible by the ISCLR system / hardware.

Publicly listed information

We only publicly list details of members of the ISCLR who are officers of the society on the website.

Meeting App

Individuals who have registered for the biennial meeting, also known as the ISCLR Symposium are automatically imported into the ISCLR mobile meeting app attendee list for that year. The purpose of this feature is to allow attendees to direct message to each other while onsite at the meeting. The only information displayed in the attendee directory is the person's name. Only individuals who are currently logged into the app are able to receive in-app messaging. All attendees have the option to opt-out of the attendee list in advance of the meeting by managing preferences in the settings section. All speakers and presenters who have provided biographies, CVs, and other personally identifiable information to the ISCLR will have this information displayed alongside his/her presentation details.

Compliance with federal and international laws

We comply with current United States of America federal laws pertaining to the gathering and use of personal data. We comply with Canada's Law on Spam and other Electronic Threats. We also comply with the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), effective May 1, 2018, that applies to users from the European Union.

Acceptance of terms

This document outlines the relationship between you and the ISCLR. When you visit our website, join as a member of the ISCLR, apply for a grant or award, submit a lecture or scientific abstract to be considered for the biennial meeting or register to attend the biennial meeting, you agree to this Privacy Policy. If you do not agree to this policy, please do not use our website. This policy may change or be modified without notice; please review this privacy policy on a regular basis. If you have questions or concerns about how your data is being used by us or if you are interested in opting out, please contact the ISCLR secretary.

Updated June 2019